NEW SYSTEM

"Nationality now makes no difference, nor will it in the future. The strike has opened the eyes of the planters. This action opens the door for further improvements, and the Japanese on the Hawaiian Islands must work for these further improvements. The introduction of the new schedule predicts higher wages later on."

Under the heading, "Victory for 70,000 Japanese," the Nippon Jiji also says: "The cause that we have fought for has been won. It is a great victory for righteousness and will lead to further victories if the Japanese will combine and work together for their own interests."

The credit is claimed by the odious traitors, but the resolution passed by the six newspapers had nothing to do with the planters' decision."

Compared to Treaties.

Under date of December 1, the Jiji also says: "It is announced by the planters' association that laborers will be paid in accordance with the amount of work they do. This grand victory of the higher wage association may be compared to the treaties between Japan and European countries, by which all Japanese are received and respected as much as the citizens of those countries. We have fought for recognition by the planters, and we have won it."

"Now, even where Japanese laborers are getting $24 a month, such as at Kohala and Hamakua, they, too, can claim a bonus."

Meeting Was a Frost.

The Nippon Jiji called a general meeting of the officers of the higher wage association and the twenty Japanese labor unions that are represented in Honolulu. The six officers of the higher wage association turned up, but not a single representative of any of the labor bodies. The meeting was a complete and deplorable frost.

The Jiji also reports that on some of the plantations the Japanese were dissatisfied with the action of the planters, but both the Shingo and the Chronicle emphatically deny this report.

The correspondents of the Shingo on both Hawaii and Kauai state that when the news was wirelessed over and spread broadcast by means of the telephone, it was greeted everywhere with much rejoicing and loud banzais.

A Special Edition.

On the afternoon of November 29, the Shingo got out a special edition to announce the good news. In an editorial on December 2, the Shingo says: "The announcement made by the planters' association is a victory for the conservative Japanese element that stood, through the strike, for peaceful methods and deprecated the work of thoughtless agitators."

"The consequences of the rash acts advocated by the agitators were to cause a bad feeling between the planters and the laborers, such as should never have existed and, indeed, had no reason to exist."

Peacemakers Won.

"The advocates of peace did what they could to act as peacemakers between the laborers and the planters, and the outcome shows that their efforts were successful. We advise the laborers to stay with their work, to do the very best work they can, so that they may regain the esteem of their employers and contribute to the development of the sugar industry, instead of hampering and impeding it."

"We know that the planters were projecting a raise in the wage scale and, had there been no strike, this concession would have been granted some time ago, without the loss of all the money that went to the strike fund."

Belongs to the Past.

"But this belongs to the past. Yet the strike taught a good lesson. No strike, originated by an outside element and started without previous preparation and absolute right on the side of the strikers, is ever a success. Also many European laborers have been imported to take their places. To ignore the laws of a country in which you reside and to disturb the order of the community is merely to pour oil on the flames of the anti-Japanese feeling."

"Let this be a warning to stay by your work faithfully and thus enrich yourself by obtaining the greatest benefit from the bonus system."

Cooperate with Planters.

The new policy of the planters assures every Japanese laborer at least $22 a month, with a good chance of making much more if he is industrious.

"The Japanese laborers will now work with a renewed interest and free from any anxiety for the future. This is what the six newspapers advocated and the concession has been granted to them as representing the conservative element among the Japanese and the real wishes of the laborers, when unaffected by agitators."

"We call on all Japanese to cooperate with the planters for the perfection of the system, so that every man may get the best returns for his work. The fact that day laborers receive a less bonus than those who contract, should be a great inducement to undertake contracts and to make those contracts pay."

KONA'S CARGO SHIFTED.

Hilo Tribune, November 30.—The steamship Enterprise sailed for San Francisco last Wednesday afternoon. Her cargo included 4900 bags of Hutchinson plantation sugar, 1040 bags of Hakalau sugar and 1362 bags of pineapples.

The four-masted schooner Kona arrived here last week with a load of lumber from Port Townsend, after a trip of forty days, during which the vessel encountered a storm, which Captain Hansen describes as the worst he had ever known. The Kona lay alongside the Robert Lewers when loading, and left on October 19. She encountered the storm on the 27th, this being the same storm and the same night during which Captain Underwood of the Lewers was washed overboard. The Kona's deck cargo shifted, and a number of sails were lost. So bad was the storm that for a while Captain Hansen thought the ship would not survive. The forecastle was flooded, and for several days the crew had to live aft. Captain Hansen has his wife and child on board.

The steamer Likelike arrived yesterday morning from Honokaa with only 16 bundles of hides as freight. The purser reports the steamer Maui at Paunalo on Friday discharging freight.

The Ke Au Hou, arriving Saturday from Hawaii ports, brought 1656 bags of coffee.
